

RACING IN HEAVY SQUALLS

ANNUAL REGATTA OF THE SEAWAN-HAKA CORINTHIAN CLUB.

THE RACE OF THE KESTREL—THE AMORITA AND THE MIDGE SUFFER BREAKERS—THE QUINSETTA, THE CLORITA AND THE VIGILANT AMONG THE WINNERS.

Two deaths from drowning cast a gloom over the finish of the twenty-ninth annual regatta of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Club, which was held yesterday afternoon. The day began with light weather and a breeze from the west, but it soon changed to a squall and it ended in a succession of squalls and storms.

There was an entry list of something like sixty yachts, and about forty-three vessels started. There was a delay of half an hour from the scheduled starting time, 12 noon until 12:30, when the preparatory signal was given. The start of the big schooner was at 12:35, when the Amrita, Quissetta and the Clorita went to windward of the crossing line. The Amrita broke out a baby lighthouse and worked manfully stately, and the Quissetta soon set the same sails. They crossed as follows: Amrita, 12:35:10; Clorita, 12:35:45; Quissetta, 12:35:15. The course for the large boats lay northwest five miles to a mark off Greenwich Point and then five miles easterly to a mark off Long Neck Point, and return five miles to the starting point, twice round, thirty miles. The smaller boats sailed a smaller triangle on the same compass course, a distance of twelve nautical miles.

The start of the big boats was signalled at 12:40, and the yacht Sultana crossed first at 12:41, followed by the Vigilant, 12:41:10; the Syce, 12:41:35; Kestrel, 12:41:40; Queen Mab, 12:43:10; Loris, 12:43:40. The start for the smaller boats was made at 12:45, and the Quissetta crossed fifty seconds later and the Vigilant at 12:46. Then the Kestrel, Possum, Hera, Momo, Memory and Hussar followed.

The boats started at 11:45, and those started at 11:50 were so much in a bunch that it was impossible to take their times as they crossed the line, so the committee took no figures on the start. The wind was barely strong enough to give them a breeze, and they crossed about eight miles from shore, about two hundred yards from the start. The Momo and the Spindrift fouled each other, but without damage. On this course to Greenwich Point the wind veered from north of west to south-east. One boat was seen with the flag at her truck floated out by a west wind, and her mainsail was drawing well with a wind from the southeast. She seemed to be going at a steady pace, and it almost seemed as if she were making a surprise to the committee that she had a small auxiliary engine engine her.

THE VIGILANT CATCHES BREZES.

The Vigilant caught breezes aloft that no others enjoyed, and she pulled out to the northward in a way that Mr. Hyslop said was the wonder of his yachting experience. She left the other miles behind, trailed by breezes fifty feet higher than the others could reach. In these rains and cat-paws the Amrita fared badly, and the Quissetta was soon found to possess a long lead. The Syce, too, had a fair lead, but the Kestrel.

Before the first reached the first mark the Vigilant had gone almost to the second, and in this second leg of the course she ran the five miles with a slightly started sheet in 35 minutes and 2 seconds. The first mark off Greenwich Point was rounded by the leaders as follows: Quissetta, Syce, Amrita, Queen Mab, Clorita and Kestrel, and this order was held at the turning point. The Amrita passed the Syce, the south wind was now coming up freshly, and as the committee came into the smaller triangle sailed by the smaller races it was seen that a number of them were teeling.

It could not be ascertained when the Amrita lost her foremast, but she turned the mark at the end of the first round with the wreckage neatly cleared away and only the foremast to the topmast at the foremast. In spite of her accident and the Quissetta's long lead made in the cat-paws, she was here only 1 minute and 40 seconds behind her rival. At this turn of the home mark the Syce was leading the Kestrel by 40 seconds.

The boats were timed at the end of the first round as follows: The Spindrift, 1:12:10; the Vigilant, 1:14:10; the Mongoose, 1:15:30; the Quissetta, 1:15:35; the Syce, 1:15:40; the Kestrel, 1:15:45; the Possum, 1:15:50;
